

Airdrie, Alta. – True Heart Horses and 2-W Livestock have donated an equine treatment stock as a prize during the 32nd annual

Horse Breeders and Owners Conference, January 10-12, 2014 in Red Deer. All conference delegates will have multiple opportunities to enter the draw over the course of the weekend. Delegates who attend the most sessions and receptions will increase their chances to win.

John Anderson with True Heart Horses says, “These stocks meet the recommendations for stocks in the new Code of Practice for the Care and Handling of Equines. And by incorporating an easy to use stock into any facility promotes more humane handling and treatment of horses.”

Stocks are useful for veterinary procedures or routine treatments. The stocks are safely designed and the horse can be easily loaded and unloaded.

“I don't know very many horse owners who haven't dreamed owning their very own horse stocks, especially one designed by the experts with 2-W Livestock and True Heart Horses,” says Peter Fraser, President of Horse Industry Association of Alberta. “Having this type of equipment can get you out of a lot of trouble and make life a lot easier and safer for you and your horse. We are extremely pleased to be able to offer this ‘special wish list’ prize as part of our Conference opportunities.”

The Horse Breeders and Owners Conference is an annual event organized by the Horse Industry Association of Alberta and sponsored by a generous group of equine organizations and businesses.
